

THE ANTI-SLAVERY BUGLE.

THE ROYAL CHARTER.

Recent advices from Europe bring intelligence of the wreck of an Australian packet ship—the Royal Charter—involving the loss of over four hundred persons. The intelligence of this terrible catastrophe was received with saddened hearts in England, and even in this country it has awakened no common emotion, for it is but rarely that any vessel goes down, and carries with her so many human forms.

We said it was but rarely that such an event occurred, and it is because of its rarity, and not because of its destruction of human life. Not because of its amount of human suffering, in the fact placed upon record and made the subject of newspaper comments. On the very day of the wreck of the Royal Charter, an incident more terrible occurred in our midst, of which no note has been taken—at least by man. On that very day four hundred new born babes, upon whom God, by his royal charter, had conferred liberty, and all the blessed fruits of that gift, were swept from the deck of humanity and went down, down down, hopelessly struggling amidst the boiling, seething waves of slavery's hell of waters. And of the millions who knew of this terrible destruction of the glorious future which might have been evolved from the soul of each victim, there were none to help. Gain sought the crowded streets, and made its market. Ambition pursued its glittering prize, and builded of human hearts its temple of fame. Religion sat in its costly sanctuary, and there told its beads, and muttered their prayers. But there were none to help.

And not only on that day were four hundred new born souls engulfed in the black sea of American slavery, but on every succeeding day, and on many preceding days has the same terrible catastrophe occurred. It is as regular as the rising and setting of the sun. Its frequent repetition has so familiarized us with its horrors, so accustomed us to the crime, that it has become a part of this nation's life—a curse that enters into every household, and unbidden takes the vacant seat at every board.

A POSTSCRIPT.

[We intended printing the following P. S. contained in a business letter from Parker Pillsbury, but unfortunately fled away the letter after the business part had been attended to. Though it was written a month or two since, it has not injured any by keeping, and with this explanation we give it to our readers.]

P. S. My last meetings were in Georgia county, small in Newbury, but not so in other places. I have urged the "Personal Liberty Law," measure, all in my power; and also separation from all church connection with slavery. But large numbers of leading Republicans oppose the former, and all the clergy, nearly resist both and blasphemously the other. The old pretence of being anti-slavery, wholly so, since the separation of the General Conference, is still kept up, by many methodists, ministers as well as others, though the facts are all admitted by the Bishops, and the hollow pretence has been proved a lie, a thousand times, in a thousand ways.

In leaving you as now I must, my health imperiously demanding at least a short respite from labor, it is sad to think that from the Allegiances to the Pacific, there will not, (to my knowledge,) be a single out-door Agent left to represent the Garrisonian idea and doctrine. "No Union with Slaveholders," will continue to ring from many a voice; but only on occasions, few and far between, I fear in any public way. No agent has ever been more liked in the Northeastern counties, than Joseph A. Howland; and many are wishing he could go through the West. His name and Jones are on many tongues since last winter.

And from the late Liberator, it would seem that the field agencies in Massachusetts, are scarcely any better sustained—surely not up to the demand. The Personal Liberty Law, the removal of Webster's Statute, (iron-railed and proped all round with Republicanism,) the hypocritical and hollow-hearted CHURCH ANTI-SLAVERY ASSOCIATION, (a last device of Satan) and the general interests of the cause, call for a real and energy on every hand, by the real friends of Humanity, such as has never been known before.

UNRELIABLE CONSOLATION.—The Washington Republic, after copying a portion of Wendell Phillips' insurrectionary lecture, says:

"It is a consolation to know that Mr. Phillips is not an American citizen, and we hope that the very few American citizens who can read his insane ravings without rejecting that he is an alien. In fact, he is not only an alien, but an alien enemy."

The editor of the Republic will perhaps be surprised to learn that Mr. Phillips is a native born American, whose wealth, and talents, and family connection might have insured to him the highest office in the gift of Massachusetts, but that he voluntarily relinquished all chance of political preferment, and laid down his citizenship rather than support a pro-slavery government.

DEMOCRATIC CONSOLATION.—The Plaindealer comforts itself with the thought that the change of one vote—only one vote—in every township in the State from Republican to Democrat, would make a difference of 20,000, which would give the State to Douglas. But suppose there should be a change of one vote in each township from Democrat to Republican—then what?

TO THE POINT.—Some of the administration papers have been making a great bluster as to what would be done by the Virginia authorities or those of the United States, to compel the attendance as witnesses in the treason cases, of Greely, Giddings & Co. Horace, in a recent number of the Tribune, makes the following proposition, which certainly ought to settle the matter so far as he is concerned.

"There is no need of a requisition in the premises for a simple letter from Gov. Wise will answer every purpose. And, in order to save expense (the finances of Virginia not being in a state of exuberant prosperity) we hereby notify the Governor that Horace Greely intends to be in Washington on Monday, December 8th, and will then and there be willing, so soon as the House shall have adjourned for the day, to step over at his own proper cost to Alexandria or any convenient point in Virginia and be examined at length before any Judge or Commissioner of that State as to all matters concerning John Brown and his colleagues in the recent affair at Harper's Ferry. Having had the honor of a slight acquaintance with Gov. Wise in old Whig days, we do not need to assure him that this proposition is made in perfect good faith, and that we require of him no safe conduct nor stipulation of any sort whatever."

SENATOR DOUGLASS and his wife have recently been very ill. The latter is said to be much better, but in regard to the condition of the former there are contradictory reports. Some represent his condition as quite critical.

INSANITY OF GERRIT SMITH.—A correspondent in New York writes, "The sad intelligence will reach you before this letter does, that Gerrit Smith is in a Lunatic Asylum. Oh, is it not too bad that this terrible conflict should deprive him of reason, when reason is so much needed. Prophesying, so long as he has, that the system of slavery must go down in blood, no one was prepared to see him fall at the sound of the first skirmish. The people appear to be awe-stricken. I cannot tell you how deeply they lament his condition. I only wish he had such a bundle of nerves, as has the brave old hero who is at the head of the enterprise."

MARIUS R. ROBINSON will receive his letters if addressed to care of Daniel Anthony, Rochester, New York.

"THE PRESS," is the name of a new weekly which comes to us from Painesville. Its politics are Anti-Slavery Republican, and its editor is John R. French, who does not seem to be afraid to "speak out in meeting." We learn that the Press was started to meet the wants of the more anti-slavery Republicans of the Reserve. From the well known ability of the editor, we infer that the paper will give satisfaction to its readers until they are prepared to "come up higher."

COSMOPOLITAN ART ASSOCIATION.—Our readers are referred to our advertising columns for the "Sixth Annual Announcement," of this organization. A copy of the engraving there referred to—Shakespeare and his friends—is now on exhibition at Chessman & Wright's, where those who wish to become members of the Association, can do so, by applying to Isaac Wright, the Secretary for Salem and vicinity.

FRANCIS JACKSON MERRIAM, a grandson of Francis Jackson, Treasurer of the American A. S. Society, and who was one of the Harper's Ferry company, is not dead, as was reported, but is well, and in safety.

THE 16th OF DECEMBER, two weeks later than the day appointed for Captain Brown's execution, is the time selected for the execution of the others of the Harper Ferry band who have been tried.

CHANGE OF HOUR. By referring to the appropriate advertisement, our readers will see that a change has been made in the time table of the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne, and Chicago railroad.

"HAIL TO THE CHIEF WHO IN TRUTH ADVANCES."—We have received two numbers of the revived Wisconsin Chief, a temperance paper, edited by T. W. & Emma Brown. A few months since, the editors, "by hook or by crook" found themselves without office, type, or press. They have now all three, and we wish them abundant success in their enterprise.

THE LADIES WREATH is a dollar magazine, published by John F. Scovill, No. 8, Spruce St. New York. It claims to be the cheapest and best dollar monthly published; and we are inclined to think that the purchaser will get the amount of his money in reading matter, to say nothing about the engravings in each number.

CHIP BASKET.

Some 60 or 70 clergymen of the Church of England recently met in London, for the purpose of organizing a new society, to be called the Free Church of England. The prefix they have chosen seems to indicate a move in the right direction.

Three renders of patent medicine have been ordered to leave Charleston. The people there with suspicion upon all strangers, and in this case their alarm was well founded, for the three would speedily have dealt out more suffering and death than did Brown and his band.

The advocates of Homoeopathy will regret to learn that the spirit of Hahnemann prescribes Ayer's Cathartic Pills for certain early complaints. Luke, the evangelist, favors hydropathy, for we have known him to treat a patient with cold water; so when we send to either for medical advice we shall choose Luke.

The next Legislature of Ohio will contain in the Senate, 10 Democrats, and 25 Republicans; in the lower branch 46 Democrats, and 58 Republicans.

A writer in the Universalist Trumpet, in telling where Cain might have found his wife, supposes that Adam, at 130 years of age, had a hundred and thirty children. This supposition has been decidedly objected to, as bordering on the extravagant.

In one of our exchanges is a poem "composed by W. C. Wilmore" on the death of a child. Though the author is not yet much known to fame, he may be, if he makes great progress. We copy some sample verses.

A little upward of five years
He dwelt upon this rolling sphere,
Ever sprightly and gay was he,
Quite prone to learn his A, B, C.

To his relations he was dear,
Danger to them did not appear,
Until October, fifty-nine,
When first they saw his health decline.

Three doctors called their skill to try,
Despite of all he had to die;
The nurses all their duty done,
But still the monster, Death, would come.

There are seventeen military schools in Russia, containing ten thousand cadets.

A golden eagle was recently shot on the St. Lawrence while attempting to carry off a child three years of age—so say some of the papers. It is not unusual in this part of the country for golden eagles to carry off children of a much larger growth.

A new phase of the Sunday question has been presented in the courts of San Francisco. A Jew, who had been summoned as juror, failed to appear. An officer, who was sent after him, found him at his devotions, observing the Festival of Atonement. Refusing to attend, the Judge fined him $250; the legality of which action will be tested before the proper tribunal.

The visit of the Great Eastern has been postponed until next year. This is a great disappointment to the Portlanders who had made both private and public preparations for their reception.

Attempts are being made to prove that Bunyan stole the Pilgrim's Progress from an old French work. His own testimony is an explicit denial of any plagiarism.

"Manner and matter too was all mine own,
Nor was it unto any mortal known
Till I had done it."

$10,000 REWARD FOR J. R. GIDDINGS. We find a paragraph with the above heading going the rounds of the papers, purporting to be, not a reward for Mr. Giddings, but a proposition, through the Richmond Whig, of some nameless body to be one of a hundred to raise $10,000 for the delivery in Richmond of Joshua R. Giddings, living, or $5,000 for his head. When the amount is made up, and the reward offered over a responsible name, the affair will be worth looking into. Then, it would be a conspiracy for kidnapping and murder, rendering those engaged in it amenable to the penalty of the law; now it is simply southern bluster and braggadocio, full of sound and fury but signifying nothing.

PENNA BORN.—Henry Ward Beecher says, "A man who would not help a fellow creature flying for his liberty, must be either a villain or a politician."

PLUCK.—The following card from T. L. Carson, editor of the State League, speaks for itself: "Know all men by these presents, that if T. L. Carson, should see my sons and daughters on the auction block, or sold to a slaveholder or slave dealer, I should want a sharp shooter, well loaded, and if I could bring the United States Government into an individual, I would aim at his heart, and pray to the God of old John Brown, to give it good execution."

T. L. CARSON.

MARIUS ROBINSON, former editor of the Anti-Slavery Bugle, of Salem, Ohio, made us a call yesterday. Mr. Robinson is spending some time in Western New York, as agent of the American Anti-Slavery Society, and is laboring especially in favor of a personal Liberty Bill for this State. He is one of the best tempered and most tolerant lecturers of the Garrisonian school of Abolitionists, and will do good service in arousing the people to hate slavery.—Frederick Douglass' Paper.

JOHN BROWN'S WIFE.—The Worcester Transcript says—Mrs. Brown passed through this city on the steamboat train, en route for Charleston. She is a large and noble-looking woman, and worthy of being John Brown's wife. She says that she has always prayed to God that her husband might fall in battle rather than by the hands of slaveholders; but that now she does not regret his capture, for the sake of the noble words he has been permitted to utter. She says that she is the mother of thirteen children, of whom but four survive; but that she would willingly see the ruin of all her household, if it would only help the cause of freedom. What a speech for a wife and mother, whose sons have been so lately assassinated, and whose husband is now lying under sentence of death!

A Lawrence (Kansas) correspondent of the New York Times, says that recently a slave residing near Independence, Missouri, who was the head of a slave family of five, learned that his master intended selling him for transportation to a more southern latitude, and he sent word to some friends in Kansas that he would give $500 if he could be safely transported to a place where his freedom could be secured. A small company from Central Kansas started on the precarious mission, and on arriving at the mansion of the slave-owner, found a Southern planter present, and about completing the purchase of the negro for $3,500. The correspondent of the Times says:

"The planter had the gold upon his person, and proceeded to count out the $3,500, when the party seized him, bound him fast to the chair, and took such other steps as would secure their own safety from exposure or pursuit. The planter had brought with him several extra mules to transport the negroes. These the party took for the negroes also, and soon they were under rapid headway out of the State. What has since transpired with them is not so well known, except that they are hastening onward, 'all safe,' and ere this must be in that abolition State, called Iowa."

One very singular fact in the transaction is, that the $3,500 was not disturbed in the least. That will all go to prove that not robbery, but emancipation, was their mission. It was a daring feat that but few could accomplish. It was more so at this particular time, when every stranger in Western Missouri is watched with a suspicious eye, and every neighbor is on the alert to prevent just what has been accomplished."

Washington, Nov. 12.—A man calling himself McDonald was arrested here last night on Seventh street, by officer Allen, to whom he made such admissions as would lead to the belief that he was one of Brown's party, and had escaped from the armory at Harper's Ferry. He was disguised, assuming the appearance of an old man. He said he was originally from Boston. His breast and chest were well peppered with wounds, as from shot. Gov. Wise being telegraphed to, returned an answer instructing the officer to send to Harper's Ferry for persons to identify the prisoner and to inform the President.

In the course of his brilliant lecture on Courage, at the Tremont Temple, on Tuesday evening last, Ralph Waldo Emerson said with marked emphasis, referring to Capt. John Brown—THE SAINT, whose fate yet hangs in suspense, but whose martyrdom, if it shall be perfected, will make the galloping as glorious as the cross. The sentiment was responded to by the immense audience in the most enthusiastic manner.—Liberator.

The Kansas Press apologizes for a typographical error in a preceding issue—an item of news was headed Law Business, instead of Low Business—but the editor says "the difference is so slight it is hardly worth noticing."

ARREST OF A HARPER'S FERRY CONSPIRATOR IN MEMPHIS—EXCITEMENT IN THE CITY.

On Tuesday morning last, our citizens were thrown into an inconsiderable state of excitement, by the announcement that one of the Harper's Ferry conspirators had been arrested in this city on the night previous. It seems from all the facts we have been able to gather, that Dr. W. R. Palmer, the name of the person arrested, came to this city about the month of July last, but from what State or place, we have been unable to learn. During the time, however, he contracted a matrimonial alliance with a very respectable lady residing in this county. During the past few weeks he has been boarding at the Redford House, in this city, and to all appearance, was a man of respectability and means. It happened, however, in that publication of the miscellaneous contents of "Old Brown's" carpet-bag, the name of W. R. Palmer occurred among the conspirators against the integrity of the government of the State of Virginia.

His residence was stated to be at Big Creek, in this county. Gov. Wise, upon this hint, communicated with Gov. Harris, and the matter was placed in the hands of Mr. C. Birch, a gentleman of prominence in this State, who, at a late hour on Monday night last, proceeded to the Redford House and arrested Palmer while that person was comfortably reposing in the arms of profound slumber. He was committed to prison to await the movements of Gov. Wise, who will lose no time in having him transferred to the jurisdiction of Judge Parker's court. These are the facts, so far as our researches have brought us in contact with them. Yesterday, the circumstance of a Harper's Ferry conspirator having been arrested in this city very naturally produced considerable excitement.—Memphis Reporter, 9th.

FOUR HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

MONTREAL, Monday, Nov. 7, 1860.

The following is taken from The Liverpool Daily Post of the 27th October:

"The public will learn this morning with overwhelming grief, that the splendid vessel, the Royal Charter, was totally lost yesterday, in Muffa Red Bay, near Bangor. The melancholy intelligence, which reached us late last night, was brief, but we fear it is only too true, that of upward of 400 persons who were on board, only ten are said to have been saved. There is some hope, however, that this is an exaggeration, but under any circumstances the loss of life, it is to be feared, has been immense. The Royal Charter had about half a million of gold on board, when the disaster took place. The particulars are not known, as the telegraph had ceased to work, and so destructive had been the storm along the coast yesterday, that the Chester and Birkenhead Railway had been destroyed in two places. At Penmaenow, twenty of the dead had been washed ashore. The Bay in which the catastrophe occurred is two or three miles to the westward of Puffin Island in Anglesea, and six or seven miles to the north-west of Beaumaris. It has a shallow, sandy beach for several miles, with promontories at each end of the bay. The country around is wild and few houses are about."

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 27—midnight.

Reporters have arrived from the scene of the wreck, and state that the vessel struck at 2 p. m., the strain being too great for the cables. At first but little alarm was felt, but some immensity of a dreadful death was apparent to all. One heroic sailor swam ashore, and made fast a hawser by which several lives were saved, and more might have been had not the vessel perished in two with a dreadful crash, the funnel and machinery giving way. The passengers and crew were either killed by the falling masts or perished in the waves.

Four hundred and seventy persons were lost, and only thirty-one saved. All the women perished. There was no pilot on board, the signals made when the vessel reached Point Lyons not having been answered. The bulletin, it is expected, will be recovered.

MARRIED.

On the 17th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. A. B. Maxwell, Mr. WILLIAM A. PATRICK, of Havanna, Cuba, and Miss MARY J. BLACKBURN, of Salem.

We insert the above notice in the columns of the Bugle; the cake, which accompanied it, was inserted in another place. The office hands affirm it was excellent in quality, and though generous as to size, it was disposed of with alacrity.

EYE AND EAR, AND ARTIFICIAL EYES!

Dr. G. A. KNAPP, the eminent Oculist of Buffalo, is making a few visits to Cleveland and Salem. He exclusively cures Deafness and Diseases of the Eyes and will insert Artificial Eyes. He will be in Cleveland every Saturday, at 158, Superior St., opposite the Weddle House, and in Salem every Wednesday, at the Farquhar House. Serious cases of Deafness or Blindness should present themselves early, as Dr. K's visits will be limited, but regular, once a week.

P. S. Dr. K's Book on the Eye and Ear may be had free of charge.

NOTICE.—The success which attends the practice of Dr. Knapp, Oculist of this city, is almost beyond precedent, if indeed it has ever had a parallel.—Buffalo Christian Advocate, May 11th, 1854.

THE FAIR

OF THE WESTERN ANTI-SLAVERY SOCIETY

Will open on the twenty-third of December, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, in the Town Hall of Salem, under the auspices of more favor and interest than any Fair hitherto held in this community.

The object of this gathering is already well understood, and we need only add that each succeeding year with its increased guilt of slaveholding, and its sorrowful sacrament of agony and death increases our obligation to the slave, and should give a new impulse to indefatigable and unflinching labor.

While the Slave in the South writhes and groans in his fetters unheeded by all, and the demand is more chains for the captive of a foreign shore, while the free north is blushing with shame and dismay at the insult and outrage of a pro-slavery Government, our course is plainly forward and revolutionary. Light, love, and labor only, will secure the unconditional emancipation of the slave.

The results of the Fair are, without exception, appropriated to the dissemination of faithful, radical Anti-Slavery sentiments.

We have already a large assortment of rare fancy goods, and with the liberal aid of our tried and true friends, shall offer our generous patrons the finest display of the useful and the elegant.

TWENTY-SIXTH NATIONAL ANTI-SLAVERY SUBSCRIPTION ANNIVERSARY, In the month of January next, in Boston, 1860.

In a year when Americans find themselves citizens of a country where the African slave trade is going on, and slave-hunting, unforbidden, and sheltering the fugitive indicted as a crime, and the leading religious and political influences so dead to this public shame as to discountenance legislative reform, we are confident that we have only to open our subscription in order to be becomingly and effectually sustained by the awakening virtue of the people, in the enterprise to which our lives are given.

We entreat, then, all the friends of Liberty, and of the foe of Slavery, everywhere, in the South as at the North—in Europe as in America—philosophers as well as Christians, Catholics no less than Protestants, to subscribe to a fund and a mode of expenditure which prepares the way before every sect, every party, every association, which makes all other men's anti-slavery labor light, and which has, for six and twenty years, been laying the foundations of many generations, so as to exclude slavery from American institutions, and secure to posterity those blessings of liberty which the last generation passed away without enjoying.

THE UNDERSIGNED, while asking the favor of their subscribers' company, on their customary Anniversary occasion, are impelled by the goodness and the grandeur of the enterprise, by its indispensable necessity, by the universal and fundamental character of its principles, to entreat also the assistance of all. The crisis in the nation's life makes the occasion—one which will be worth crossing the ocean to participate in. And while thanking our European friends for their generous co-operation of last year with America, we ask its continuance yet a little longer, till a spirit of devotedness adequate to this great world-enterprise shall have been awakened.

From this day forward through the year we be gin to arrange our efforts, and economize our means, greater or smaller as the case may be, to meet this great national claim; and we desire all who would see slavery abolished, and truth, honor, peace, liberty and safety in righteousness sacrificed to meet us at its close, for cheer, counsel, sacrifice and generous co-operation.
